Last Updated: November 18, 2025

Important: This policy explains how third-party offers are presented within the MyAverix Calculators app. You can choose whether to receive these offers, and this choice does not affect your ability to use the core calculator features of the app.

1. Introduction

MyAverix Calculators ("we," "our," or "us") provides financial calculator tools to help users make informed decisions. As part of our service, we may display third-party offers from financial institutions, including home loan providers, banks, and other financial service companies.

This policy describes how third-party offers are presented, what information may be shared, and your rights regarding these offers.

2. What Are Third-Party Offers?

Third-party offers are promotional content from financial institutions that may include:

- Home loan interest rates and terms
- Loan product information
- Special offers or promotions
- Links to third-party websites for application or more information

These offers are provided by external financial institutions and are not directly sold or serviced by MyAverix Calculators.

3. Your Choice to Receive Offers

3.1 Optional Nature

Receiving third-party offers is completely optional. You can choose to:

- Opt-in: View offers by selecting the "View Offers" option on your calculator results
- Opt-out: Decline to view offers; this does not affect your calculator functionality

3.2 How Your Choice Affects App Usage

- If you opt-in: You will see a "View Offers" button on your calculator results page
- If you opt-out: The "View Offers" button will not be displayed, and you can use all calculator features normally
- Your choice does not affect core app functionality, including calculator tools, history, or PDF export features

3.3 Changing Your Preference

You can change your preference at any time through your app profile settings. Changes take effect immediately.
